ANATP/BNATP Monthly Update March 2024 Supplemental

- 1. Recertifications no longer require skills testing. Those recertifying can go directly to the nurseaidetesting.com site and apply to take the exam. Evaluator lists have been removed from the website and new instructions to CNAs to recertify have been added.
- Please ensure your students understand that they are certified, not licensed, and that IDPH does not issue license numbers, certificate numbers, licenses, or certificates. If your program issues a certificate of completion, they need to understand that that shows their successful completion of the program, but it does not make them a CNA. We receive dozens of calls and emails daily from employers who are providing graduation/completion certificates as proof of certification. All students must take and pass the certification exam before they are considered a CNA. Please consider revising any certificates to state that it is only a certificate of completion of the program and does not mean the individual is certified.
- Send only schedules or revisions to masterschedule@siu.edu. Do not send any other emails to this inbox. All questions should still be directed to me. If you cancel a class, use the same format as a revision, but substitute CANCELLED. Schedules for a cancelled class go to the same email address as the other schedules.

Example: 0095_CANCELLED_20240201_20240327.

- Don't forget about the annual CNA Instructor Conference on Friday April 26, 2024. The deadline to register and complete payment is April 12, 2024.

As always, do not hesitate to call or email with questions.
